THE POPE'S ENCYCLICAL ON THE ENVIRONMENT-

Laudato Si: This is the first time a Pope has devoted one entirely to environmental issues. The pontiff unambiguously accepts the scientific consensus that changes in the climate are largely man-made, and also laments a loss of biodiversity and growing scarcities of safe water. Francis is especially strong on the link between environmental problems and poverty, arguing that developing nations will bear the brunt of today's ecological crisis and that poor people are ill-equipped to adapt to a changing climate. It's essential, he insists, "to hear both the cry of the earth and the cry of the poor". For Christians, Francis says, there's a special obligation to care for "our common home" rooted in the Biblical idea of nature as God's creation. Yet he says the message of Laudato Si' is intended for all, because no one is exempt from the consequences when, as he puts it, the Earth begins "to look more and more like an immense pile of filth". Fr. Donal Dorr, will be speaking on this encyclical in Killarney on the evening of 28th of September. Further details to follow at a later date.
